SCHUYLER'S
Alden Pure Cider Vinegar.

We make exclusively and guarantee Pure Cider Vinegar, thoroughly aerated—the best article of genuine Cider Vinegar that can be made.

The C. A. Government tax from one to two thousand barrels each year, and have found it the purest. The makers not only use the finest grades of ripe and sound Cider Fruit, which costs a capital investment, but also employ the most improved methods of manufacturing, by which the Cider Vinegar is perfectly developed, and then aerated, thereby producing in seven days a product which will not ferment or sediment in bottle, and which is unsurpassed in strength, purity, and delicacy of flavor by any Cider Vinegar.

We have used these barrels of Cider in our own manufactory of Vinegar, and can guarantee it to be a pure article of Cider Vinegar.

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

A DELUGE FOR A DARK HORSE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—The Speakership contest, it is expected, will subside shortly after the Democratic caucus. Its very subject causes one not built to be the Congressmen who are here. The truth is, the worst that has thus far been alleged is speculation. It is true the two candidates, because a good deal of it is evident upon the statements of the several candidates or their friends. The best expert is stated to it is that neither Randall nor Carlisle will have sufficient strength in the caucus. A Democratic Congressman is quoted as having said today that it would not surprise him if the contest should not get started then, in which event the position of Speaker would be left open for the Republicans to fill as they choose. The suggestion

MONEY.

THE AMOUNT IN CIRCULATION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—There have been many estimates made which were furnished by the Director of the Mint as to the amount of money in circulation. Some reports have created wonder there was possible to so much gold in the country as Mr. Burchard puts the amount to be—viz.: $[illegible]. The estimate of the Director of the Mint having been called to these estimates below, he says that all he had to say was that he knew that the figures of the said Office are correct, but he thinks not that the figures of the various officers as to the amount reported out of the Treasurer's office as to the amount in the Treasury are correct. That being so, he estimates, the claims are considerable of undoubted demonstration to about seven, for that matter, of the amount set forth in greenbacks of the Treasury and of the gold, as to the respective that he has not estimated at many $ [illegible] gold certificates, which are kept [illegible] Treasury, and which are not [illegible] Treasury, and which are not [illegible] Treasury, and which are not

The permanent prosperity of Chicago is further illustrated by constantly increasing home investment. Eastern money applied to loans or other securities in this city is being rapidly retired for local capitalists, whose confidence in Chicago is born of experience.

It is gratifying to note that this confidence is extending to a host villages into suburbs annexed to and nearby municipalities. This city should support and encourage these enterprises. Every dollar invested in a home industrious town increases, doubt, at present the capital value of each of such its property.

The Rock River Paper Company was complete in the Probate Court, Judge Gary presiding, and Colonel Ira J. Evans, Receiver for the Company, Judgment Debtor.

A statement was issued yesterday morning through the Sheriff's office against the Rock River Paper Company for $10,774 in favor of the Citizens' National Bank of Dixon, Ill., and $1,000 in favor of the Dixon National Bank of Dixon, Ill., and also in favor of the Central National Bank of Boston, these aforementioned judgments being brought against the Rock River Paper Company, and also against the Merchants' Loan & Trust Company of Chicago, and also in favor of the Illinois Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago for $10,000, these latter judgments, all of these executions were placed in the hands of Deputy-Sheriff Cleveland, who proceeded to serve them on the officers of the company, No. 56 Lake street. Cleveland's duty is but brief. It is to call the Company's indebtedness to the attention of the President, J. R. Cobb the Secretary and Manager, and C. W. Evans the Secretary. The only one of these officers who was in the city yesterday was the last named, but he refused to talk, saying that after further consultation with the other officers of the Company he would be in a position to talk. Mr. Cobb and Mr. Evans are said to be in Chicago.

The attachment was also issued yesterday in the Superior Court in favor of the Illinois Trust & Savings Bank and Lyman J. Gage, Trustee, vs. the Rock River Paper Company, Judgment Debtor. The writ was placed in the hands of Deputy-Sheriff Cleveland, who proceeded to serve same on the officers of the company, No. 56 Lake street. Cleveland's duty is but brief. Assignment of a Chicago Tobacco Dealer.

A voluntary assignment was that made last by F. E. Hudson, dealer in cigars and tobacco, at No. 62 Dearborn street, for the benefit of his creditors, to Frank H. Wheeler, his clerk. A schedule of liabilities is given which foots up $12,000, while the estimate is given of the stock and fixtures in store, including accounts, is given at $8,000. The principal Chicago creditor is the Tiger Tobacco Company, of Detroit, Mich., which gave notice yesterday to the Superior Court that it would apply for a writ of attachment against the stock of Hudson. The Detroit house is said to be the heaviest creditor of Hudson, and the latter's assignment was the result of the action of the Tiger Company, according to Mr. Smith, who is the attorney for the Detroit house. The writ of attachment was issued yesterday afternoon, and the Sheriff's office was notified to take charge of the store. The Tiger Company's claim is for $1,000, and the total liabilities of Hudson are said to be about $12,000. The assets are said to be about $8,000, and the stock of goods is valued at $5,000. The actions relative upon the Northern Pacific Road are to encounter continued to Secretary Sherman. Haupt's letter of resignation, petitions yesterday, having caused considerable surprise and comment in railroad circles, a representative of THE TRIBUNE called last evening upon Mr. John Muir, General Traffic Manager of the Northern Pacific, who is in the city at present, to ascertain what he had to say regarding the matter.

Mr. Muir stated that he felt probably more surprised than any one else in the matter of General Manager Haupt's resignation to yesterday's Tribune, and was told to believe that the colleagues with whom the company's affairs in Mr. Haupt's hands were genuine. He had at many important Mr. Haupt as an energetic and capable man, and would not for one that he would be guilty of such inaccuracies of facts as contained in the correspondence. In response to the query as to what he thought of Mr. Haupt had sent a letter to the local newspaper to that effect during these stormy times, and thought something like that, under the circumstances, would be attributed to him. Haupt was really attorney many, though his work was principally with the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, connected with the Pacific Improvement Company, which is the construction company of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company. Mr. Haupt's letter was addressed to the Secretary of the Interior, and was to the effect that he was not in sympathy with the policy of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, which is to construct and operate the road in accordance with the provisions of the land grant act, and [illegible] Brothers.

In Queen street, Regent square, London, in the year 1815, was born the most prolific of English novelists and who shall say not one of the best? For we value the imaginative of the capabilities of an excellent hard commonsense of his whole life's work, written for business. Painting and Sculpture had a at first, and was also kind of competition there for him together, and so we are told that the list of writers of the sales of manuscripts does not fall far short of a dozen years. Anthony Trollope's was the first great literary living picture of English provincial life. He was the last of the race of great novelists born within the present century, and he will not be entirely forgotten in the work of the magnificent and varied productions.

Trollope's boyhood was one of miserable, care and privation. His father[illegible] was a man fairly educated, of some parts, with an immense capacity for work, absolutely strong and much beyond the average of men, and gifted in a curious, clumsy fashion for the writing of books. Here, however, his talents ended. He was by nature a dreamer, and with a head full of wild projects for making money, which always ended in disappointment, he was unable to support his family. Anthony was one of seven children, and from his earliest years he was left to run wild in the streets of London, with no one to look after him or care what became of him. He was sent to Harrow, but was there treated as a pariah, and was glad to get away. He was put into the chambers of a barrister, but was there treated as a pariah, and was glad to get away. He was put into the office of the Post-Office, but was there treated as a pariah, and was glad to get away. Contagious Diseases of Animals.

The great council session from the problem [illegible] of articles about the sale of diseased animals for food is soon to be investigated during convention to be the matter to which the disinterested portion of the country suffer from diseases of a serious nature. This matter has been discussed and the feeling of interest has been extended to the growing of those who handle and selling live stock, have a tendency unless they have [illegible] and those of their customers are affected. Such men dealers that the [illegible] of those who have valued interests [illegible] subject have been noticed, that the articles published have been considered and without a basis of truth—that those who are upholding this subject are ignorant of the matters of which they talk so much and so strongly—and that in many cases of selling diseased [illegible], some of them people who get a living by "scraping" in the [illegible] towns market have freely and publicly admitted that, for the last [illegible] or more, they have seen such animals sold in the market, and they agree that as well as such has been of rather diseased [illegible] the meat [illegible], the sculptors, hers and [illegible] of meat [illegible] of sickness [illegible] unsuitable to this [illegible]. A LONG SLEEP.

An Inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Milwaukee to Sleep for Twenty-eight Days.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—One of the most remarkable instances on record of sensitive brain and life-without fuel to support either in the case of a veteran is now in the Soldiers' Home. The case was the Wisconsin Central Railroad this morning brought him behind the Guard of one month having to change forward patiently, a veteran of the War of the Rebellion, en route for the National Military asylum. The man, who is an invalid and was transported on a cot in the baggage car of the train, presents a peculiar case. Twenty-eight days ago he entered into a sleeping trance condition, and until the train arrived here had neither spoken a word or taken a mouthful of food. While at the Union Depot, however, waiting to be transferred to the hotel an effort was made to arouse him, and this has the effect to cause the sleeper to raise his head to the food momentarily. For the time refused to eat in accord with the habit, and remained silent. Therefore a small quantity of milk was fed to the old man, but he continued to sleep on.

The case presents remarkable features, and the arrival of the strangler here has been brought to accord with the Board of the Soldiers' Home, and the Wisconsin Central Railroad has agreed to the Government and Directors

The North Mississippi Valley the Practical Vault in Aid of the New Country.

The Latest and Completest with the Crops Now Safe for Seven Succeeding Years Full.

The Fight Times Are All in the Towns, but Manufactures Are in Full Blast and Very Profitable.

Among the multiplicity of the events which recently have transpired in the great metropolis, of late, Tue Tribune has called upon its correspondents in different sections of the West in quest of the conditions of trade and manufactures in their several localities. The responses which have been received are in nearly all cases entirely satisfactory in their character, showing the people willing to work and to put forth brain, have given their opinions as to the good or bad aspects of the times.

Three things become at once apparent in the general meaning of the dispatches.

First—That in three of the great crops have proven overwhelming.

Second—An enormous amount of money has been sent into West, which accounts for the wonderful development of Dakota and that region.

Third—The great farming class within the wide compass of this country is wealthy for the present season itself.

And now the farmers have been marketing for the most of what is considered of short crops in fields have been taken, and have received considerable with the merchants, and much close down for the season. Now, even with the fall and winter of the farmers across the manufacturers are busy, and the latter will probably be so confined with the crops and the diversity of Tributaries would, as said here before, Europe, chief with of the introduction of orders of Great Lakes.

One of the States, Wisconsin, it would seem, has never seen Eastern manufacturers. The complaints are modest in Iowa and Minnesota.

For the convenience of the reader, points have been taken to illustrate the universal improvement these general reports. In the matter it is seen that merchants of the farmers will not sell at the present prices, while others have a large amount of actual wealth in their hands. With all the food-consumers, the cities will never place that the farmers have little need of extra money. In consequence of the large trade to profit. The more than the usual number, in the aggregate, to continue to increase, and the aggregate are confident in believing, and the aggregate are to an extent concerned with profit. The English farming communities feels the great mass of merchants who have per- chased only what they will be sure to sell. The manufacturers are practically all running on full time at a good profit. Less than in any one of the years previous have orders been coming in more freely. Take them in all, the dispatches answer the curiosities of the country with the most positive of the answer with the most positive "Yes!"

As to need to apply of country banks, lack of banking accommodations, and the scarcity complained during of the farmers for the needs, and have ceased to be reports. They have been obtained by correspondents, the most important of which are the telegraphers of the farm that are in an extract of the answer themselves.

The following answer was addressed to the correspondents:

(The Tribune prize of $10 has been awarded this week to the author of the following story.)

Sunshine.

We were at Cleve when our alliance and engagement. There was a cavalcade letter from my young nephew, Reginald Travers, cantering and naive. He dogs and friend Admiral Hamilton was dead; the affairs left in a bad way. The arrangement of his property, entertaining accounts, and settling up of the estate were left in my hands. I accepted to the effect that Josephine (the only and motherless daughter of my old friend, Sir Geoffrey Ogilvie, Bart., of Ogilvie Grand Site. That he had secured a charge into the Tartt, which was soon to be ordered [illegible] to fight Zulus, and closed by saying that the best thing I could wish him was a [illegible] through the head to the five-pounder.

My poor Ray! It was his first taste of [illegible], and it was going there here, I longed to prove his head to sympathy. Across the stability of [illegible] and [illegible] and store at the hundred and one [illegible] which had so long me my [illegible] way. However, in two days I was well on my journey.

Soldiers are fonts of speech. I began to [illegible] about self-praise of sympathy for [illegible] old friend's daughter, but gave up in despair, trusting that, as in battle, when the opportunity comes, I should be ready to [illegible]. And, after all, to such self-reliant natures as Josephine's sympathy acts a tonic of grim action gave it a distinctive flavor.

A word of myself here. As my sister [illegible] had been away lately, I inherited [illegible] my brother's death the gift of even the oldest house and its large business interests. A misanthrope, to last above little taste for the society of his kind. My visits to this town are brief. I had taken little notice of Josephine until I came to Burwood on [illegible] matter. Her name ascribes her. Divinely tall, she had none of the artificialness prevalent in women of her station, but her manner was at all times free, suggesting the flight of a wild bird. Better than beauty, her face expressed dignity and character. Her hair was simply worn and, although a [illegible] low and long was a great essential [illegible].

Her two companions! Clumsy grenadiers of valets, an under a maid's [illegible]. One had a truth, two commands and which stayed out later with maid's [illegible], whenever their errand. Many of the [illegible] and various back at her shrine, but each and all right, because her and her [illegible] had been an understanding. [illegible] on a visited attachment. Many a [illegible] but, I consulted for nothing though, [illegible] Cecil never seriously to wish to me [illegible], the my brother. The [illegible] ing country families who [illegible] there [illegible] on account of a few years and [illegible] not with most complacency, [illegible] but for the flying visits of my friend [illegible] and an occasional week or [illegible] the invasion of Hamilton. Then, my time [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
